We know that the curriculum is the lessons as well as the academic content that is offered in an academic unit or program or in a course/ module. As part of the standard definition, curriculum is can be defined as the program or courses offered by an academic institutions or school, though it is important to note that it is rarely used in such a general sense in schools<sup>[3],[4]</sup>. In other words, curriculum typically the knowledge components as well as skillets that requires by the learners to expected to learn as per the learning standards and objectives viz. studying the prescribed units, lessons, assignments, projects etc. There are different models on Curriculum & course designing and the ICCRD following the Graves's Models and Murdoch's model in designing the same in apart to latest interdisciplinary components including in the course gradients (refer Fig. 2 & 3).

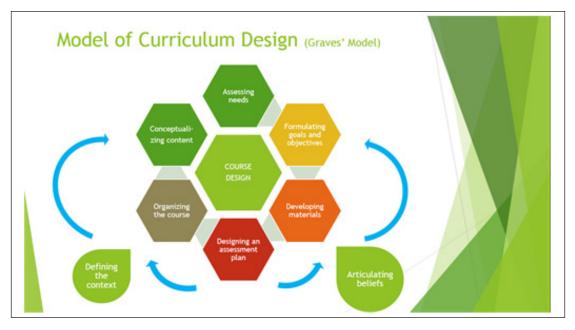

Fig. 2: Graves Model in Curriculum Designing

The components of getting knowledge in respect of curriculum are the books, study materials, study and knowledge based videos, presentations etc. As part of the curriculum, different methods are used for the evaluation of the learners. Hence in every course/ program there should be a specific learning standards, assignments, knowledge based materials to be used for the organization of the course. International Centre for Curriculum and Research Development (ICCRD) is responsible to get and meet these standards at par with other international institute for teaching and learning. ICCRD is playing a liaison among its schools/ faculties/ departments/ units/ centers to reach the standard and prescribed curriculum; including proposed curricula and models. Further, International Centre for Curriculum and Research Development (ICCRD) as an academic unit of the Crown University International Chartered Incorporated (CUICI) also involved in making healthy research activities of its different units viz.—
